

Message from the Universe

Shari, long weekend? I get it... politics, chaos, a polarized world. You probably won't believe this, but I'm as powerless as you when it comes to living other people's lives. On the other hand, you are as powerful as I am when it comes to living your own life. You decide what's meant to be. You can have anything you want and everything is possible – whether you lean left or right, are in the top or bottom 1%, read fake news, or dispense coffee. Don't give away this power waiting to see what happens to the rest of the world, when you can decide what will happen in yours. In awe of you, The Universe
