

On Aging

Posted on October 09,2017 by nmcreatrix

Found this this AM on a great site... Brainpickings.org

I know what worries me most when I look in the mirror and see the old woman with no waist. It's not that I've lost my beauty — I never had enough to carry on about. It's that that woman doesn't look like me. She isn't who I thought I was. Ursula
LeGuin

Interesting take - see the whole post here:

Posted in:Uncategorized | Tagged:Aging,Beauty | With 0 comments