

A Tough Anniversary

Posted on April 12,2018 by admin

Today is the first anniversary of a terrible day in my family's life. Last year on April 12, 2017 my 13 year old great niece took her own life with a self inflicted gunshot.

Image not found

http://www.creativitycontinium.com/wp-content/uploads/2018/04/amber3_sm-1024x768.jpg

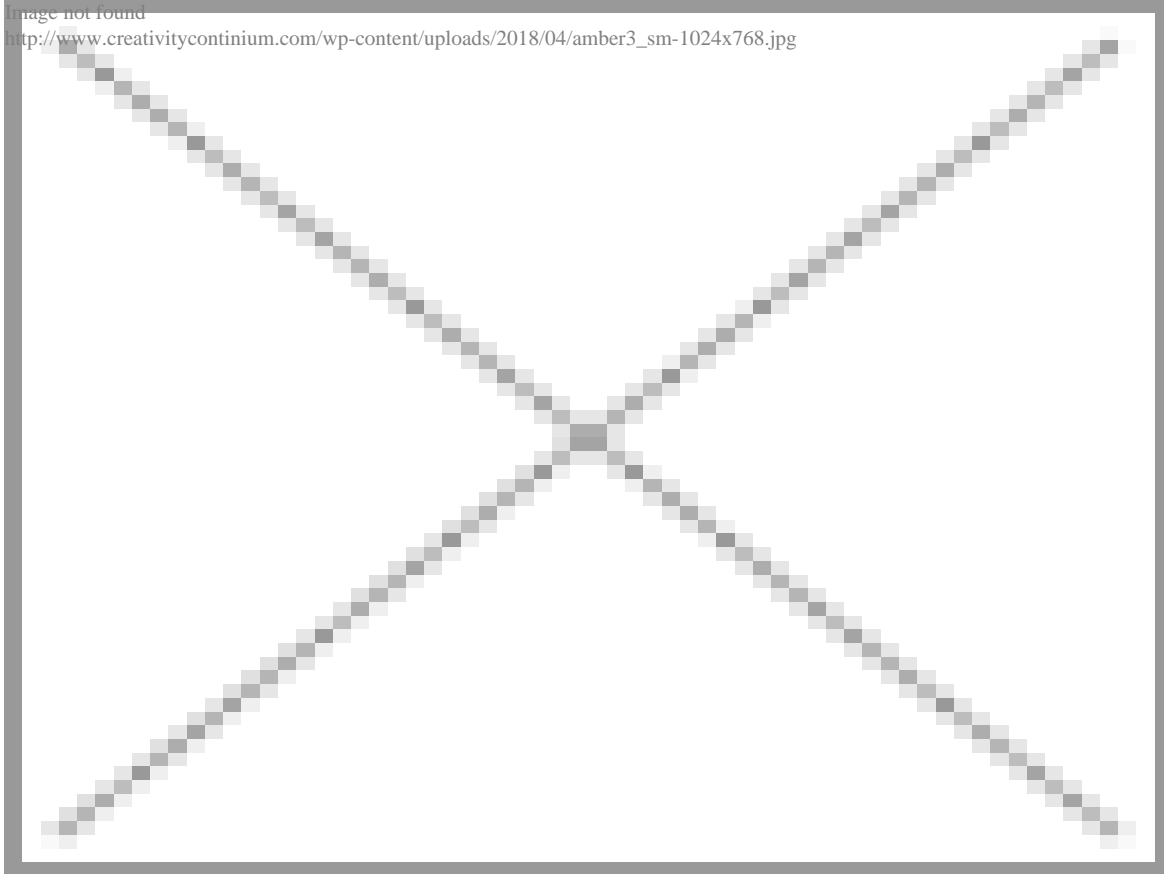

Image not found

http://www.creativitycontinium.com/wp-content/uploads/2018/04/little_angel.jpg

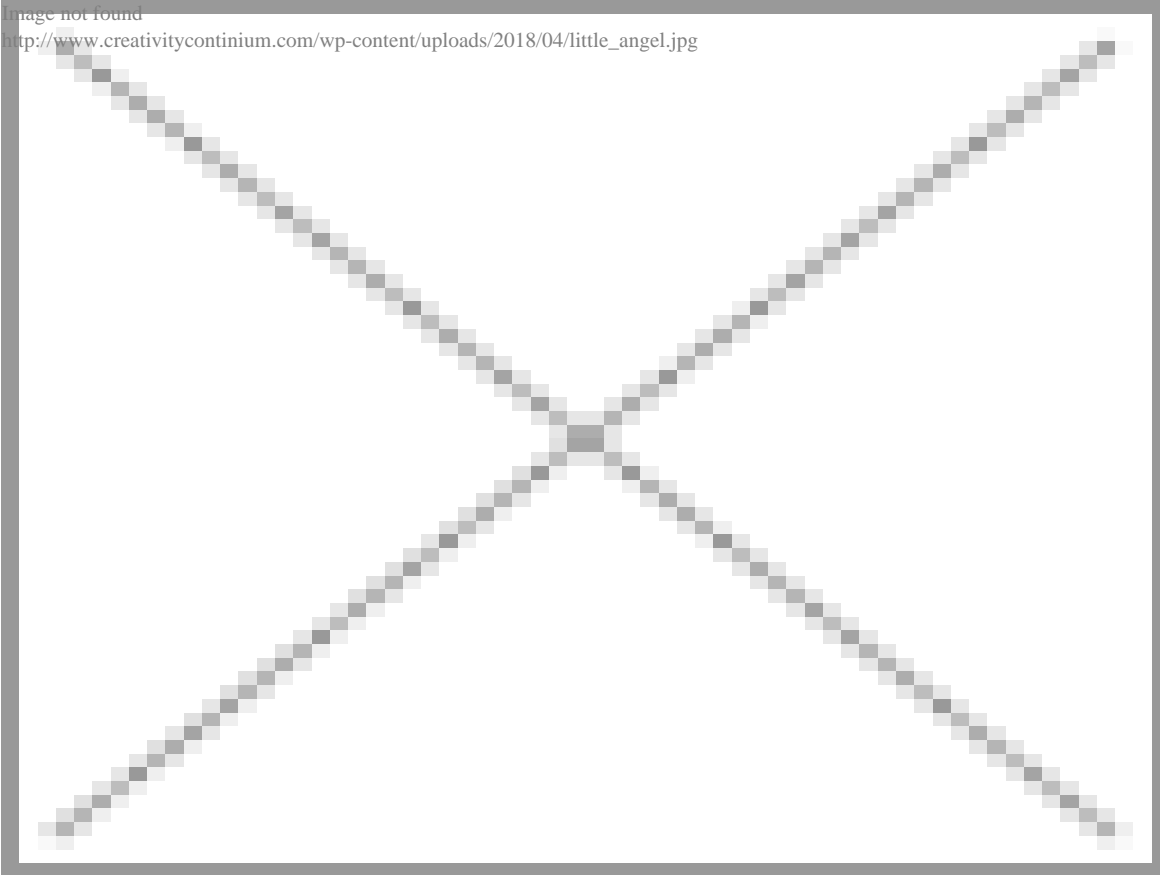

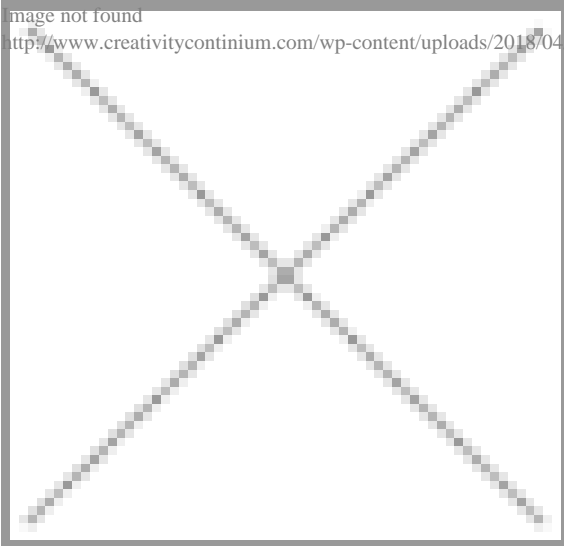

Image not found

<http://www.creativitycontinium.com/wp-content/uploads/2018/04/thank-you-heart.jpg>

She was an excellent soccer player, well on her way to the Junior Olympics and quite an artist. She was my soul child, and had to "shop" my fabric stash everytime she visited. She always went home with some treasure be it fabric, lace or buttons. She used these treasures in her creations. We will never know for sure why, but we know that we love and miss her. The world is a sadder place without her.

Posted in:Uncategorized || With 11 comments