

Weathering Experiment

Posted on May 20,2012 by admin

This is my monthly update for the weathering experiment. The winds have really been blowing and the strands have wrapped around the support. It rained a LITTLE the other day, but I don't think that it was enough to alter the paper.

The

circular papers are wrapped around the support, but I did not remove them this time. I have had to attach the support to an upright with the red ribbon, as I had to move the support from the sunflower pot. The beads on the ends of the streamers were at the height that they would have bashed them into the dirt!

Posted in: Art By The Yard Weather Experiment | Tagged: Art By The Yard, Weathering Experiment | With 0 comments